

ABSTRACT

A consecutive reading method for a computer game comprising the steps of reading as a plurality of segments
5 field data to be resident in memory and displayed on a monitor screen and deleting field data in segments resident in memory and reading new field data into memory based on the player's progress in the game.